Dear Madam,

At the outset, I would like to introduce our company to you, and the industry-academia initiative we want to promote, to improve the quality of engineering students in India.

Our company, Barry-Wehmiller International, is an engineering and IT consulting company, catering to manufacturing companies mostly in the US and in Europe. We are part of the Barry Wehmiller group. We are headquartered in St. Louis, USA, and have a global turnover of over $2.4 billion. In India, we have offices in Chennai, Pune and Bangalore.

The reason I’m writing to you has to do with an industry-academia connect called CORE - Career Oriented Engineering, that we have launched, to increase the calibre of engineering students across India.

You are aware of the gap that exists between academic learning and industry needs from engineering graduates. CORE is a program that aims to bridge that gap. It also provides tools for Entrepreneurship and Competitive exams for higher studies. Designed and executed by our specialized engineering professionals, CORE is the most comprehensive and intense campus training program ever, conducted by an industry with a 130 year old history of engineering excellence.

For this progressive initiative, we are in need of Government support and approval, to enable us to provide meaningful and successful career paths for engineering students.

In this regard, I request for a meeting with you to explain our program in greater detail, and how it can create future-ready engineering graduates. Kindly let us know a suitable time and date, and our HR Director will attend this meeting to take this forward.
